

VISCOUNT SAITO ANNOUNCES JAPANESE CABINET RESIGNATION

MOMENTOUS GERMAN CABINET MEETING VON PAPPEN'S FUTURE IN BALANCE TO-DAY WHILHEMSTRASSE AREA INCIDENT

Berlin, To-day.

The Cabinet meeting arranged for to-day will be the most momentous since the inauguration of the Nazi regime. It will deliberate, inter alia, the future of Vice-Chancellor von Papen, and the fate of the Storm Troop leaders.

It is understood that Herr von Papen has already been exonerated from complicity in the plot. He is expected to be released and superseded in the Vice-Chancellorship by General Goerring, the Prussian Premier and Reich Minister of Aviation.

It is ascertained that Herr Strasser, the former Nazi leader, was among those shot.

EXCITEMENT WAS RENEWED HERE YESTERDAY EVENING BY THE SUDDEN BARRICADING OF THE WHILHEMSTRASSE AREA. HUGE, WONDERING CROWDS GATHERED BEYOND THE POLICE CORDON, BUT IT TRANSPIRED THAT THE MEASURES WERE TAKEN BECAUSE CHANCELLOR HITLER WAS PAYING A VISIT TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING OF SIAM, AT THE HOTEL ADLON-REUTER.

HITLER CURB Now To Be Prisoner of Reichswehr

LABOUR JOURNALS' CRITICISM.

Paris Plot Rumour.

London, To-day.

The situation in Germany continues to occupy the attention of leader writers.

"The Times" remarks that as far as methods of the Government in respect of human life are concerned, Germany has reverted to medieval conditions, but probably during the next few years there will be more reason to be afraid for Germany.

Other commentators are of the opinion that Chancellor Hitler will come to an understanding with the Reichswehr for the disbandment of the Brown Shirts.

In view of this the "Daily Herald" declares that Hitler will henceforth be a prisoner of the Reichswehr, the police, and the Junkers.

The "Daily Herald's" Paris correspondent declares that the shootings in Germany were the sequel to the recent visit of Hitler's emissary, Herr von Ribbentrop, to Paris.

He asserts that Herr Ribbentrop promised M. Louis Barthou, the French Foreign Minister, that if France would agree to the German rearmament proposals, Chancellor Hitler would disband the Storm Troops.

The news of the Paris conversations leaked out in Berlin and the Storm Troop leaders decided to resist disbandment, but spies reported the plot to the Secret Police and Hitler and General Goerring promptly forestalled it. — Reuter.

LOCAL RAINFALL

The local rainfall recorded at the Royal Observatory for the 24 hours ended 10.30 a.m. to-day was 0.50 inch, bringing the total since January 1 to 40.57 inches, as compared with a normal average of 39.51 inches.

Turbaned troops mounted on camels and carrying rifles shown on the retreat through Yemen, Arabia, before the conquering army of King Ibn Saud of Saudi. The desert-war caused some apprehension in London and warships were dispatched to nearby seaports to protect British nationals.

BUNNY AUSTIN'S RAPSE

P AND O WANT FUNDS FOR SHIPBUILDING

$1,500,000 Worth Of Shares In Coal Export Firm Sold

London, To-day.

The newspapers state that the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co. have sold $1,500,000 worth of their holding of ordinary shares in a coal export firm, Messrs. Cory and Son.

It is understood the object is to raise money for shipbuilding.

The P. & O. Company's holding in the Cory concern is said to amount to $5,000,000.

30-LOVE ON SERVICE AT 5-4 IN FINAL SET

PERRY'S STAMINA TRIUMPHS.

CRAWFORD'S COMEBACK

Two Americans, the 1931 finalists, the Australian holder, and a British player, contested the Semi-Final of the Wimbledon Championships at Wimbledon to-day.

London, To-day.

Bunny Austin, 1932 finalist, led Frank Shields, 1931 finalist and America's No. 1 ranking player, by two sets to nil and yet lost the match.

The British player was superb in the first and second sets, driving and volleying perfectly.

In the third set he led 3-1, but Shields then staged an amazing rally. The American speeded up his play and forced Austin into a series of errors which eventually saw the match level once again after the fourth set.

Austin led 3-0 in the final set, and was 30-love on his service at 5-4. Shields, however, again thrilled the crowded stands with brilliant drop shots which had his slower opponent helpless. In the twelfth game Shields scored the British hope to win the set and match.

Shields won by 4-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 7-5.

Shields reached the final in 1931, but a knee injury caused him to concede a walk-over to Wood, in view of the Davis Cup contest.

SECOND BUDGET ADVOCATED

Anticipating Surplus In Britain.

TAX REDUCTION SOUGHT

London, To-day.

Mr. A. Duff Cooper, the newly appointed Financial Secretary of the Treasury, replied in the House of Commons yesterday to a question as to whether, in view of the fact that revenue and expenditure for the first quarter of the financial year was forecasting a substantial surplus at the end of the year, that the Chancellor of the Exchequer would introduce a second Budget, making further tax reductions.

He replied that it was quite impossible to base any sound conclusions in revenue returns relating only to the first quarter of the financial year. — British Wireless Service.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received July 3, 8.40 a.m.)

Chicago, To-day.

UNANIMOUS DECISION REACHED

AIR-MINDED KWANGSI PLANE FACTORY ON LIU RIVER STUDENT CLASSES HELD.

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Wuchow, To-day.

The Kwangsi Provincial Government is operating a modern aeroplane factory where aeroplanes are manufactured, assembled, and where repair work of all kinds is undertaken. The factory is under the supervision of a European superintendent, who has under his direction an efficient staff of Chinese mechanics.

Up to the present time, the factory turns out all the parts of an aeroplane except the engine. Undoubtedly, in time, this important branch of aeroplane construction will also be introduced.

The factory is located on a river not far from Liuchow, one of the principal cities of Kwangsi Province. A good motor road and a narrow gauge railway connect the plant with the city. The factory was purposely located on the Liu river in order that the transportation of materials could be facilitated. Not only are war planes specialised in by the factory, but bombs of various sizes are also manufactured on the premises.

New York, To-day.

The United States statistician and economist, Mr. Roger Ward Babson, has predicted the end of the business decline as next month. He advised the purchase of stocks.

The New York journal "Brookmire" anticipates a sharp drop in business in July, but adds that this should complete the current reaction. — United Press, per S. T. Levy and Company.

CHATER ROAD.Rustic Beach

Baggy Trousers.

Paris.
Mainbocher in his summer beach styles seems to be bent on pyjamas that cease to take on the character of evening gowns.

Each of his new beach and country models can be worn by the most orthodox individual.

This attitude brings an entirely different smartness to kit of this kind, and at least two pyjama models that will go into country gardens have been seen.

One is similar to a workman's overalls and the other a haymaker's smock without the smocking, but fairly wide, baggy trousers. Both are high necked and seem to suggest, with their great country hay-making hats, an approaching summer fashion for a sun-glow rather than sun-tanned skin. These styles can be imagined creating a classic beach vogue when shirts and baggy trousers are slipped off to reveal a swim suit!

Paris.
Dresses here are simple and ingenious and charming. Many of them make great play with stripes of deep, but not harsh, colouring.

There is a great deal of jersey and knitting in all kinds of stitches, and bright colours may be worn with dark skirts and belts and with a scarf which may be half one colour and half the other.

Belges are rife, and so are the natural shades in all kinds of material—rough, smooth, mixed, and plain.

The Aftermath of Maternity.

The joy of motherhood, great as it may be, is not of itself sufficient to ensure strength and vitality to a system which has become weakened by the recent strain imposed upon it, and though nature's recuperative mechanism should entail no serious consequences, the artificial means of modern life have increased the possibility of impairment of health.

At this time more than at any other, it is necessary for the mother's blood to be rich, pure and plentiful, thereby strengthening the nervous system and ensuring for the life she has brought into the world maximum chance for health and happiness.

Wise mothers as well as those who are attending to the arrival of a little one will find that the blood and nerves by means of a reliable tonic of which there is none better known for the purpose than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, renewed for more than fifty years.

By their blood action whereby new, rich, red blood is created at every dose, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved to be the ability to rebuild strength, increase vitality, build up the blood and nerves, and thereby ensure health and vigor to the mother and her child.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the world famous blood and nerve tonic, are equally good for men as for women, and they can be taken with perfect safety by men, women, and children, and are obtainable from chemists everywhere.

Map shows the route charted by Maurice Rossi (left) and Paul Godeaux (right) for their record trans-Atlantic flight, having made a non-stop flight from New York to Paris, a distance of 3,610 miles. Ideal weather and a tail wind aided them when they set a world's distance mark.

JUNE A RAINY MONTH.

Average Fall Well Exceeded.

The mean temperature for the month was 80.7 degrees Fahrenheit, and the mean relative humidity 85 degrees. These figures differ only slightly from the normal values for June. There was a deficiency of sunshine, the total recorded being 140.1 hours, against a normal of 163.7 hours.

The highest wind velocity recorded during the month was a gust of 56 miles per hour at 3 p.m. on June 2.

June was an unusually rainy month. Rain was recorded on every day, except three, and the total rainfall amounted to 25.11 inches, which is nearly 10 inches above the normal. The heaviest fall occurred on June 22, when 9.05 inches fell during the 24 hours. This is the heaviest fall recorded in one day since July 19, 1928.

The total rainfall recorded during 1934 up to July 1 amounted to 40.04 inches, against a normal of 38.43 inches.

BRIDGE NOTES

INTERNATIONAL MATCHES.

by Ely Culbertson.

Europe, due to the lesser distances between countries and capitals, has gone much further in the way of international Bridge matches than we on this side of the Atlantic.

Here, if an American team wishes to cross swords and match wits with team presenting any other country, it is a matter generally of crossing an ocean, or, in the case of our neighbor to the North, Canada, riding hundreds and perhaps thousands of miles. I have no doubt, judging from some examples I have seen of Canadian Bridge, that the trip, however long, would be worth while and that Canadians would give a fine account of themselves against the strongest teams in the United States.

Some interesting examples of team-of-four play occurred in a recent match between Crookford's Club of London and a team representing Holland. One of the hands which produced a very considerable swing in favour of Crookford's team was the following:

West Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
North:—
S—A 5
H—A K 8 7 4
D—5
C—10 7 5 3 2
South:—
S—10 6 4 3 2
H—5 2
D—J 10 6 4 3 2
C—
East:—
S—Q J 8 7
H—J 6
D—Q 9 7
C—J 9 6 4
South:—
S—K 9
H—Q 10 9 3
D—A K 8
C—A K Q 8

In Room 1 the British team was seated North and South and there the bidding went as follows:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 H	Pass	3 C
Pass	4 C	Pass	4 D
Pass	4 S	Pass	6 NT
Pass	7 C	Pass	Pass

The bidding here is, of course, somewhat involved due to the fact that at the time the hand was played, Crookford's team had not been converted to the efficacy of the Four-Five Notrump Convention. However, by good fortune they reached the correct contract.

Where the Dutch team was seated North and South the bidding went:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 H	Pass	7 H
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

The seven-club contract was made without difficulty, even on hand. The seven-heart contract was defeated, because East chose to open a club, which his partner refused. The lead, it must be admitted, on this bidding was a lucky one as there is nothing in the bidding to make a club lead seem preferable to a spade or for that matter a diamond.

The hand is interesting as an example of the great strides in bidding which have been made recently. With the use of the Four-

HEIRLOOMS FOUND BY WORKMEN.

Discovery In Ancient Lisbon Palace.

Heirlooms believed to have been hidden by Queen Carlota Joaquina, of Portugal, to escape looters during the French occupation of Lisbon in the Peninsular War have been discovered by workmen.

They were installing electric light in the ancient royal palace at Queluz, and found the heirlooms behind a panel in the wall of Queen Carlota's bedroom.

One of the articles, an exquisitely worked altar crucifix of solid silver, weighs more than ten pounds. There are also six altar candlesticks of silver.

All the articles belong to the period of King John V. (1706-1750).—Reuter.

BIG FAMILIES ARE BEST.

Hitler Advocates Four Children.

Cologne. All married couples in Germany to-day should aim at having at least four children. That is the edict of Herr Hitler, and one of the arguments he uses in favour of it is the number of famous Germans who were younger members of large families.

Here are some of them:—
Frederick the Great, Blumarch and Kant (each a fourth child).
Schumann and Rembrandt (fifth).
Beethoven and Mozart (seventh).
Bach (eighth).
Wagner (ninth).
Schubert (twelfth).—Reuter.

Cinema Notes

"ONE SUNDAY AFTERNOON"—KING'S THEATRE

"One Sunday Afternoon," a domestic drama, featuring Gary Cooper and Fay Wray, is Paramount's current release now showing at the King's Theatre.

The action of the story, which takes place in a country dentist's office is a human story of a small town bully who later became a successful dentist, and who believes that he is in love with a former sweetheart.

After a lapse of 20 years, the girl returns to the town where he works, and Cooper then finds that he is disillusioned.

Supporting Cooper and Fay Wray, are Neil Hamilton, Roscoe Karns, Jane Darwell, Sam Hardy, and Elizabeth Patterson.

"MEN IN WHITE"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

"Men in White" now showing at the Queen's Theatre, is undoubtedly one of the most effective and distinguished photoplays to reach the screen this season.

Clark Gable, in a memorable performance appears as Dr. Ferguson, the young interne who realizes all the obligations of his profession but struggles against the conflicting claims of the girl he loves. The girl, played by Myrna Loy soon comes to the realization that a doctor so engrossed in his career has no time for love, with the result that the young interne is thrown into compromising circumstances with one of the nurses in his hospital.

The ensuing entanglement and its complications bring about a climax that presents a high water mark in dramatic suspense.

The entire cast of "Men in White" as well as its brilliant director, Richard Boleslavsky seem to have put their whole heart into their respective performances. Gable and Miss Loy have never been greater, and honours go also to Jean Hersholt and Elizabeth Allan.

"BLOOD MONEY"—ALHAMBRA THEATRE

Starring George Bancroft, "Blood Money," now showing at the Alhambra Theatre, is a splendid American racketeering story full of action and excitement.

There are a lot of excellent characterizations in "Blood Money." George Bancroft gives such vitality and force to the character of Bill Bailey that you wonder how the screen has survived with him all these months.

Frances Dee, Chick Chandler and Judith Anderson, Broadway stage star making her screen debut, play the other leading roles and do splendidly. Miss Anderson should find a definite niche in pictures for her histrionic talents and her outstanding personality.

"THE FOURTH HORSEMAN"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

"The Fourth Horseman" featuring Tom Mix, noted cowboy star, is Universal Picture's current release now showing at the Oriental Theatre.

The story, written by Nina Wilcox Putnam, is a smashing drama of the "Wild West." Supporting Tom Mix are Margaret Lindsay, Raymond Hatton, Fred Kohler and Buddy Roosevelt.

"THE GIRL IN 419"—MAJESTIC THEATRE

"The Girl in 419," a romantic drama featuring James Dunn and Gloria Stuart, is now showing at the Majestic Theatre.

This E. P. Schulberg production for Paramount tells the story of the affair between a young doctor who heads the emergency hospital and a beautiful girl, identity unknown, who is brought in as a patient and whose life he saves.

In the cast supporting Dunn and Miss Stuart, are David Manners, Jack LaRue, Shirley Grey, Johnny Hines and William Harrigan.

"MERRY MONARCH"—STAR THEATRE

"Merry Monarch," featuring Emil Jannings, the great German character actor, is the current feature picture now showing at the Star Theatre.

The film is a pictorial and

FINCHER BROTHERS SECURE MOST SETS IN PREMIER LAWN TENNIS

PREMIER TENNIS TO-DAY

Many Hard Matches Expected.
CHAMPIONS SHOULD IMPROVE POSITION

Several interesting contests will take place to-day in the "A" Division Lawn Tennis League fixtures, which are the penultimate block scheduled for this season.

The Kowloon Cricket Club will entertain the South China Athletic Association, and a close match should result, for although South China are as yet unbeaten, the K.C.C. have only dropped one match.

The Fincher brothers can be expected to provide a hard resistance to the winning shots of D. C. Luk and W. T. Lee, while F. Gros and A. E. P. Guest are to be relied on to hold their end up.

I.R.C. May Hold Champions
At Sookunpoo the Indian Recreation Club will entertain the champions, the C.R.C., who are in a strong position to maintain their unbeaten record of last year.

One of the best matches of the day can be looked for in this clash, as the Indians, although not as strong as their opponents, can play sparkling tennis.

Sirdar Rumjahn and J. A. Cassumbhoy should prove a stumbling block to the Chinese in at least two sets, while H. D. Rumjahn and I. M. A. Razack should win a set or two for the home team. When either of these pairs meet W. C. Hung and Lu Tak-chouk, who are undefeated in 9 sets, a fine display of tennis should be witnessed.

U.S.R.C. Entertain Craigenower
The match at King's Park between the United Services R.C. and the Craigenower Cricket Club should also be fairly close.

These teams are both fairly well down in the table, and with the possibility of improving their position before the end of the season, a spirited display is expected.

At Causeway Bay two Chinese teams, C.R.C. "B" and "C" will clash, and on form, the win should go to the "B" team. They have won one match of their five, while in four meetings the "C" team have not registered a point.

The Hong Kong Cricket Club will entertain the Club de Recreio, and perhaps the closest match to-day will result. The Club are always an unknown quantity, their team being most unsettled. With constant changes in pairings, it is difficult to gauge the quality of a team. The Recreio, however, can be depended on to give a brisk display and solid resistance to any team the Club may turn out, and with men like F. J. Barros and H. J. Remedios in their team, they have a good chance of winning.

HON AND LAU HEAD "B" DIVISION PAIRS

BENDALL & FOWLER GIVE CIVIL SERVICE DISTINCTION

GOLDMAN AND MRS. KAYLL HAVE 100 PER CENT.

WITH the end of the Lawn Tennis League championships already in sight the Chinese Recreation Club look certain to retain the premier crown they gained without the loss of a match last year. Their only serious challenger is the South China Athletic Association, who, as yet, are undefeated.

In the "B" Division the Chinese Recreation Club still hold their 100 per cent. record, but the Club de Recreio are in a similar position.

Having lost their Mixed Doubles title, the remaining weak link in the Chinese R.C. is the "C" Division team. South China are very strong this year and are expected to regain a title they last won in 1925. Not to be despised are the Craigenower Cricket Club, who have yet to sustain their first defeat.

On this page will be found complete tables showing the results of all pairings experimented with by Clubs in the four leagues this season.

K.C.C. TENNIS DEFEAT

Bodiker Brilliant On Home Courts.

MISS GRIFFITHS DOES WELL IN CANTON

The weekend tennis visit of the Kowloon Cricket Club to the Deutscher Garten Club, at Tungshan, Canton, resulted in a win for the home team by 15 matches to 10.

The ladies were more successful than their male club-members, winning three of the four singles matches and the ladies' doubles.

A sparkling display of tennis was provided when G. Bodiker, the Canton champion, who was seen playing for the K. C. C. against the U. S. R. C. last week, defeated "Teddy" Fincher 6-1, 6-3 on the clay courts he is so used to.

Miss M. Griffiths upheld her reputation as K. C. C. lady champion, by winning all her encounters.

Full results were as follow:—

C. E. Watson (Deutscher Klub) beat R. S. Capell 6-4, 6-0; beat F. Zimmerman 6-4, 6-2.
H. Schneider (Deutscher Klub) lost to J. S. Smith 6-8, 5-6.
Seegelman (Deutscher Klub) beat J. S. Smith 6-8, 6-1; beat F. A. Broadbridge 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.
E. Dillner (Deutscher Klub) beat W. W. Hirst 6-0, 6-4.
Von Essen (Deutscher Klub) lost to F. A. Broadbridge 5-6, 6-1, 4-6.

LADIES' SINGLES.

Miss Lehmann (Deutscher Klub) lost to Miss M. Griffiths 2-6, 1-6; lost to Miss A. Mackenzie 1-6, 5-8.
Mrs. Fischer (Deutscher Klub) lost to Miss Griffiths 0-6, 4-6; beat Miss Mackenzie 6-4, 6-3.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

G. Bodiker and R. P. Newell (Deutscher Klub) beat E. C. Fincher and S. A. Gray 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.
Seegelman and Von Essen (Deutscher Klub) beat Smith and Broadbridge 6-2, 5-6, 6-3.
E. Dillner and H. Schneider (Deutscher Klub) beat W. W. Hirst and J. S. Smith 6-3, 6-5.

LADIES' DOUBLES.

Mrs. Fischer and Miss Lehmann (Deutscher Klub) lost to Miss Griffiths and Miss A. Mackenzie 2-6, 2-6.

BUNNY AUSTIN'S LAPSE

Both players served superbly, often aceing one another. The American amazed his critics by the manner in which he controlled his driving speed. He, however, went to pieces after the ninth game in the third set, failing to win another in the match.

Crawford won by 7-5, 2-6, 7-5.

Stoefen, had he not been selected to play for America in the Davis Cup, would not have been seen at Wimbledon this year. Prominent American absentees this year were Wilbur Allison, John Van Ryn, and Frank Parker.

CRAWFORD'S BRILLIANCE

Lester Stoefen, American College champion, and Jack Crawford, Vines' conqueror in the Final last year, were seen in their most brilliant moods yesterday when the Australian triumphed in four sets.

PERRY UNIMPRESSIVE

Though Fred Perry, holder of the American, Australian, Victorian, and Bournemouth titles, beat George Lott, American Davis Cup player and "stormy petrel" of international tennis, he showed poor form and faulty judgment. It was his stamina, rather than his stroke play that gave him his victory in four sets after 48 games.

Lott led 5-2 in the fourth set, but was so tired at this stage that he could hardly wield his racket.

Perry won by 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8.

KIRBY OUTCLASSED

Sidney Wood, winner of the title in 1931 on a walk-over from Frank Shields, completely outclassed J. V. Kirby, the South African champion who caused a sensation by beating Von Cramm in the earlier round, his opponent only securing the third set through Wood trying stunt tactics.

The American was seen at his best in the final set when he swept Kirby off the court without the loss of a game. Kirby lost many points on double-faults.

Wood won by 6-1, 3-6, 3-6, 6-0.—Reuter.

and Mackenzie 2-6, 2-6.

MIXED DOUBLES.

G. Bodiker and Miss Lehmann (Deutscher Klub) lost to E. C. Fincher and Miss Griffiths 0-6, 4-6.

OLD RECORD OF BOOKING
EXPECTED TO STAND

Los Angeles, June 25.

Whether or not Hardin will be credited with a new record in the 220 yards low hurdles is now open to doubt, although yesterday, at the National Inter-Collegiate Athletic Meeting, he was considered to have set a new world mark. By means of an electrical time-keeper, he was shown to have completed the race in 22.16 seconds, which is outside the world's record of 23 seconds, established by C. R. Bookins, the American athlete, in 1924.

His time of 22.7/10 seconds, which, if correct, would have far

1 WINDSOR LAD (C. Smirke) 15-2
2 EASTON (G. Richards) 100-9
3 COLOMBO (W. Johnston) 11-8
4 TIBERIUS (G. Nicoll) 10-1
(Admiral Drake last.)

By ROBIN GOODFELLOW (Captain Eric Rickman)

London, June 8.

IN this year's Derby the young men triumphed. The winner's name, Windsor Lad, itself suggests youth light-hearted and venturesome.

He is owned by the Maharajah of Rajpipla, who, whatever his age, is young in appearance and spirit.

No Derby owner in my time has dashed from the stands more quickly to meet his horse after the race than did the Maharajah. He was the first down the stairs, and was out on the course, hat in hand, almost before the last horse had passed the post.

He had been the one owner who had had sufficient confidence to declare that he did not fear the unbeaten, and reputed unbeatable, Colombo.

The time taken by Windsor Lad was 2min. 34sec., which equalled the record established by Hyperion in last year's Derby.

Marcus Marsh, who trains Windsor Lad, is 30 years of age, and this is the first season that he has been a public trainer.

Previously he had been associated with Captain Gooch, whom he assisted to carry on after he became an invalid as the result of an accident in the hunting field.

RICHARD MARSH'S SON

No one, we may be sure, was more pleased by the success of

TOO FAR FOR COLOMBO

Umidwar behaved like a green young horse with little experience of racing. The unexpected runner was Allahah. He stumbled and caused Perryman to lose both stirrups. Yet Allahah finished fifth. Colombo's jockey, Johnston, said his horse had every chance, but "weakened in the final furlong."

S. Donoghue, who rode Medival Knight, said: "I made the running until the straight. After that my horse was done with."

G. Richards (Easton): "I waited in the Dip before challenging, but when I reached the leader's girl Windsor Lad went away again."

Windsor Lad then the King, because the young trainer is the son of the late Richard Marsh, who trained for his Majesty and for King Edward. Mr. Marsh won the Derby for King Edward three times—Persimmon, Diamond Jubilee, and Minoru.

Racing people believe in the general virtue of heredity, and both Windsor Lad and his trainer are worthy examples of this influence.

Marsh is the nephew on his

mother's side of Fred Darling, who has won four Derbies, and was second yesterday with Lord Woolavington's Easton.

Windsor Lad is by Blendford, who has now sired three Derby winners, the others being Trigo and Blenheim. Resplendent, the dam of Windsor Lad, won the Irish Oaks and was second in the Oaks at Epsom to Short Story in 1926.

Perhaps the most strikingly human note of this Derby is the fact that Windsor Lad was ridden by C. Smirke, a jockey who incurred the displeasure of the Jockey Club a few years ago and had his licence withdrawn in consequence. It was restored to him towards the end of last season.

Smirke was one of the best young jockeys produced since the war. During his long period of unemployment he kept himself fit and light in the hope that sooner or later clemency would be shown him. But he has not found it easy to re-establish himself. His triumph yesterday is to him a romantic and wonderful stroke of fortune.

Lord Rosebery reminded me that there exists a parallel to Smirke's record. C. Wood, whose brilliance as a jockey old racegoers can recall, won the Derby on Galtee More shortly after his licence, which had been withdrawn, was restored to him.

DELIBERATE LEFT AND THEN A
CRUSHING RIGHT

(By GEOFFREY SIMPSON)

London, June 8.

LEN HARVEY spent the whole of yesterday in a darkened room. This protection for his injured eye was deemed necessary by a specialist, who treated him at his home at breakfast time.

But if the atmosphere was gloomy, Harvey certainly was not. I telephoned to see how he was, and this is what his wife told me. Mrs. Harvey talking: "I think my husband is wonderful. He fought Jack Petersen for seven rounds with a closed eye, and now the specialist tells us that he could scarcely have seen out of the other one in the last two rounds."

"No—we are not worrying about the closed eye. It is merely badly bruised and will be normal again in a few days."

"It is the other eye I am concerned about. Len says that Petersen scratched the eyeball with the lace of his glove in the eleventh round. It watered so much that he could catch only occasional glimpses of Petersen through a watery mist."

HARVEY CHEERFUL

"So what was the use of his continuing? But how proud I am of him! His generalship was marvellous. Do you know that he came through the fight without a mark apart from that damaged eye?"

"A doctor this morning pronounced his general condition as perfect."

"Len himself is cheerful. He is not a bit discouraged by his defeat. He feels that the fight would have been very different but for his injury."

"He is more concerned about the Derby. He has backed Easton."

At this point Harvey, who was resting in bed, interrupted. "Tell him that as soon as I get out of this mess I want to fight Petersen again—anywhere," he said.

Back came Mrs. Harvey to the telephone to give this message, and then she added:

TRIBUTE TO WINNER

"Len says that Petersen has improved since the last fight." This tribute from the beaten champion to Petersen is interesting. Most people at the White City agreed that when the vital fifth round arrived there was little to choose. It looked either man's fight.

But Petersen's superiority subsequently was plain for all to see. I, too, thought he showed better than when last he faced Harvey.

F.A. ELECT NEW SECRETARY

Mr. S. F. Rous Replaces
Sir Frederick Wall.

REFERED CUP FINAL
AT WEMBLEY

London, June 6.

The announcement of the appointment of a successor to Sir Frederick Wall, who retires from the secretaryship of the Football Association on July 31, was made yesterday at a meeting in London of the Football Association Council, whose unanimous choice fell upon Mr. S. F. Rous.

Mr. Rous is 39. He was educated at Beccles School and University College, Exeter, and he has, since 1921, been Assistant Master and Games Master at Watford Grammar School.

His tact has impressed every one who has watched him refereeing important football matches. He took charge of this year's Cup Final at Wembley, this being a well-deserved honour after his distinguished work as a League referee.

ONE SHOT MARGIN IN BOWLS OPEN

London, To-day.

With all their wickets in hand the Australians require 109 runs to beat Surrey at the Oval and thus record their ninth win in sixteen matches on tour.

The tourists carried their overnight score of 136 for 3 to 251 yesterday. W. H. Ponsford adding 38 in a valuable stand with Alan Kippax, who was dismissed after reaching the half century.

Going in for the second time Surrey were all out for 184 before the close of play, Clarence Grimmett, with 5 for 33, being largely responsible for Australia's very satisfactory position.

In their first encounter at the Oval the Australians and Surrey played a drawn game. The home team declared their first innings at 475 for 7, Sandham scoring 219 and Gregory 115. The Australians replied with 629, Stanley McCabe being responsible for 240, and W. H. Ponsford 125.

Battling again, Surrey were 162 for 2 when the match was abandoned.

Scores, as cabled by Reuter, were:

Surrey: 175 (Gregory 48, S. J. McCabe 4 for 24, C. V. Grimmett 4 for 60, 184 (Grimmett 5 for 33).
Australia: 251 (W. H. Ponsford 85, A. F. Kippax 50).

AMBIDEXTEROUS PLAYERS

I sometimes wonder why ambidextrous players like De Stefani and Higgins, who can drive equally well with either arm, do not vary their service in similar manner. At present both men serve, right-handed, but it would be most disconcerting for their opponents if they occasionally slung one, in left-handed as well—Sir F. Gordon Lowe, Bart.

Hong Kong Cycling Club Gains Popularity Every Week

There was an improved attendance on the Hong Kong Cycling Club's run to Castle Peak Bay on Sunday last. Mr. C. Read (Captain) was in charge of the arrangements and he led the party from the Vehicle Ferry at 9.15 a.m.

A steady spin in glorious weather brought the wheelers to their venue, by way of Laichikok, Taunwan, and past the Hong Kong Brewery to Talamching, and thence to the Bay, where a halt was made at the Cafeteria at 11.30 a.m.

After refreshments had been enjoyed by the party a rush was made for the delights of the Bay's cooling waters in which the cyclists gambolled merrily, whilst the Peak frowned on them from under its cloudy crest. Heavy showers curtailed this form of amusement, and at 3 p.m. the return trip was commenced. A very pleasant and steady ride home by the same route brought the party to Shamshui at 5.30 p.m.

It being the policy of the Club to continue making arrangements for comparatively easy runs during the hot typhoon weather, next Sunday's run will be to Tai Po and Petersen has been accused of possessing but one fighting style. He proved otherwise by winning the contest more by his boxing ability than by his fighting powers. I was glad to see him standing up calmly to his work, banging out his left in his old amateur style and planting his right into the openings which he created. It was much more effective than his customary rushing, steam-hammer stuff.

PETERSEN MORE SUBTLE
That can be pulverising against slowfooted, slow-thinking heavyweights. Against a skilful, calculating boxer like Harvey something more subtle is required. It was pleasing to see Petersen produce it.

JOYCE COOPER A GOLF
RECRUIT

(By GEOFFREY SIMPSON)

"WHAT could I do?" mourningly asked James Wallace, the Scottish ship's plater, after his crushing defeat in the British amateur golf championship final at Prestwick.

The answer was, "Nothing!" The golf played by Lawson Little was of the pulverising kind, which is unanswerable.

There have been bigger victories than the 14 up and 13 to play by which the American triumphed.

But there was not a soul on the course who did not agree that Lawson Little in his mood of Saturday afternoon would have beaten the best golfer who ever swung a club.

Woman Holds Record

This question of records is interesting. Looking back, I find that the previous biggest win in the British amateur final was 13 up and 12 to play.

That was when Robert Harris, who refereed the Prestwick Final match, beat E. F. Frogley at Westward Ho! in 1925.

The referee's mind must surely have gone back to that memorable day as he watched Lawson Little putting the ball unflinchingly into the tin.

The world record, however, is held by a woman—Miss Cecil Leitch. She won the final of the Canadian women's championship in 1921 by 17 up and 15 to play.

Other Big Wins

Other big margins in golf finals are: E. Ruffell's win by 15 and 14 in the Swedish open amateur championship in 1920.

G. D. Forrester's 15 and 13 victory in the amateur championship of India, 1924.

W. S. Barnett's 14 and 13 in the Ceylon amateur three years ago.

Golf Recruit

Writing of golf reminds me that Miss Joyce Cooper, the swimming champion, has caught the fascination of sport's "most diabolical invention."

She has been taking a rest from swimming and has spent the time playing golf. She lives a stone's throw from the Coombe Wood course.

"Golf is one of few games which can safely be combined with swimming," says Miss Cooper. "It does not tend to tighten the muscles." She ought to do well at the game with her splendid physique and stamina. In a very short experience she has already reduced her handicap to a mentionable figure.

CATHOLIC
CONSECRATEDBishop Valtorta At Aberdeen.

1,000 IN PARADE

After consecrating the new Catholic Chapel in Aberdeen on Sunday afternoon, His Excellency Bishop Valtorta gave the Sacrament of Confirmation to one hundred persons.

Later in the evening His Excellency Carried the Blessed Sacrament in procession around the grounds of the Regional Seminary. Over 1,000 Hong Kong and local Catholics walked in the procession.

Before Benediction, which was given on the lower playing field beside the sea, Rev. Fr. Paul Lau preached. Clustered round the landing stage in front of the altar were the sampans and the fishing boats of the Aberdeen Catholics. Immediately after Benediction His Excellency carried the Blessed Sacrament to the sea wall and blessed, with the triple Sign of the Cross, the sampans and fishing boats in the little bay.

The St. Louis Boys' Band played during the procession and Benediction.

Revenue Officer W. G. Humphreys prosecuted.

£1,200 MAIL BAG
THEFTDaring Robbery In South Africa

BOOTY ALL IN CASH

Johannesburg. Mail bag thieves got away with £1,200 in notes after rifling a mail bag on the train from Somerset East to Johannesburg. It is believed that the theft took place between Cockhouse Junction and Germiston. The notes, which were old and soiled, were being sent to Pretoria for cancellation, the numbers of the notes are unknown, but they all bore the rubber stamp impression of the Somerset East branch of the Standard Bank. The police have now sent circulars containing all the possible information about the notes to all stores and banks in the country.

The last mail bag robbery occurred in October, 1933 when postal matter was removed from a train in transit between Johannesburg and Kingwillamstown. Between 1929 and 1933 more than £22,000 was stolen in mail bag robberies. During the months October, 1932 to May, 1933, it was estimated that about £3,000 had been stolen from bag. — Reuter.

SURVIVAL OF FITTEST

Melbourne, Victoria.

"Australians are the biggest white people in the world. We have never seen such tall men, and the majority of the women are much bigger than any I have ever seen," said Miss Claudia Cranston, who, with Miss Abbe Booth, both New York journalists have just concluded a visit to Australia.

"If I could have one wish, I would wish my legs were as long as the legs of Australian women," she said. "Little girls of 12 and 13 look like girls of 18 in the States. They are huge for their age."

"We have decided that it is a case of the survival of the fittest. The small, weak people in Australia, must freeze to death."

"Australia is a great big country, bursting out of its clothes, and doesn't know it yet," continued Miss Cranston. "The hotels everywhere are full, and the buses, trains, tram boats are full. That is a splendid thing, but it is not helpful to tourists."

Miss Cranston said she found the beds here were like steel hammocks. They would, she said, give her curvature of the spine, yet Australians have the straightest backs of any people she has seen. — Reuter.

JOURNAL QUOTES INSTANCES

Helsingfors. There are frequent complaints of the disorganised state of the Soviet railways, whose trains do not always run scrupulously to schedule.

This, declares "Isvestia" can hardly be wondered at when such instances as the following occur. Two women officials at Tjeljabin station were employed in imposing fines for negligence and bestowing rewards for outstanding services, respectively.

The engine driver of a train which arrived at Tjeljabin 40 minutes late was summoned to the office of the first woman official, who fined him $1 for not keeping to the official time-table. Hardly was he out of her office when he received a summons to visit the second chamber. She presented the astonished railwayman with a bonus of $2—"as a small token of the Soviet Government's appreciation of his thoughtfulness in not necessarily wasting coal!" — Reuter.

AIR-MINDED KWANGSI

GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS. The Kwangsi Provincial Government also operates a large aerodrome and flying field just outside the city of Liuchow. More than 15 aeroplanes are used by the European instructors in training pilots for the Kwangsi army. The first class of Kwangsi students to pass successfully the required examinations will graduate in the near future.

Instruction in night flying, battle formation and stunt flying is given by the teaching staff, and some very difficult manoeuvres have been successfully carried out by the students.

About three years ago the first consignment of two aeroplanes was delivered to the Kwangsi military authorities by the Hong Kong representatives of an English aeroplane company, and since that time the province has continued to make great strides towards the goal of making Kwangsi an "air-minded" province. At the present time the military officials have established flying fields, equipped with hangars, in most of the important cities in the province, and are preparing to place Kwangsi on the air map.

The South African Protectorates.

General Hertzog recently announced in the Parliament at Cape Town that the Government was urging the Imperial Government to hand over to the Union of South Africa the British Protectorates, which are administered by a High Commissioner from an office in Pretoria through Chief Commissioners and Assistant Commissioners by the system of what is called "indirect rule." Each tribe has its own Chief, who sits in Court to try minor cases alone, and with the Commissioner to try major cases. The Chief has his own revenue, but the taxes as a rule go into the public chest under the control of the Commissioners for public purposes. There is a great deal of history involved in this demand; but the point of interest for the outside world is that it raises a very delicate question of political casuistry: when is a treaty not a treaty? This is the question that is dividing Europe. Germany says that a treaty can be ignored as soon as its provisions become inconvenient. France contends that a treaty, — or at any rate the Versailles Treaty, — must be observed at all costs until it is abrogated or amended by the common consent of the contracting parties. The controversy is only to a slight degree between the Government of the Union of South Africa and the British Government. The British Parliament decided in 1909, when it passed the Union of South Africa Act, that the best solution of endless problems was to create one authority for the whole South African area, and that Act provides not only for the taking over of the Protectorates subject to "consultation" of the Natives concerned; but even Rhodesia, with the consent of the people who live there. A plebiscite was taken, and the Rhodesians decided to remain separate; but if they should change their minds, no further Imperial legislation would be required. The Protectorates are in much the same case. They came into the Empire voluntarily by accepting the control of "the Great Queen" and her Successors, as a protection against being absorbed into the jurisdiction of what were then the Boer Republics of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Talk of "consultation" is really absurd; for the Natives concerned have no other politics than the maintenance of the present system, and lose no opportunity of saying so.

The handing over of Swaziland, a territory lying between the Transvaal and Portuguese East Africa, would be little more than a formality. The late Swazi Queen during a long reign, granted away most of her territory not once but several times. It became necessary to appoint a Commission with extensive powers to cancel or reduce numerous concessions; and there has been a joint administration since. But Basutoland is a very different matter. There we have a powerful tribe living in the natural protection of an Alpine country, splendidly mounted on the famous "Basuto ponies," and trained to charge in the equally famous "half-moon" formation. It is worth noting as a comment on schemes of disarmament, that although the importation of arms has been absolutely forbidden for sixty-five years and the police of the neighbouring territories have done their best, the Basutos have all the modern rifles and ammunition they want. They are perfectly contented and law abiding, so long as no armed force crosses their frontier. The Boers fought them on the boundary question when the famous old Chief Moshesh was a young man, and they were very glad to make peace, with our assistance. Fifty-eight years ago the Cape Colony sent an expedition of about twelve thousand men to enforce disarmament. They were checked by a "half-moon" of three times that number, charging at full speed over rocks and nullahs, and the retreat was too rapid for dignity. General Gordon was sent out to negotiate peace; but found there was nothing to do. Moshesh was not only ready to make peace but to take the oath of allegiance; and the Basutos have never swerved from their loyalty to the Crown. Even if there were any Imperial troops left in South Africa, it would be absurd to force these people to forswear their loyalty, though it has a royalist tinge that is rather unpopular in this generation.

Bechuanaland is a vast stretch of "never-never" country with scattered oases under three Chiefs who would not be formidable in resistance to orders, but would never voluntarily agree to the proposed change. But to disregard their wishes and treat them differently from the Basutos on that ground would be a cynical recognition of the crude argument of the rifle. The Union Government has on its side all the usual pleas of convenience and administrative efficiency, and the general feeling that the old arrangements are out of date; but the Natives have their rights defined in black and white. They have always been loyal to the Crown, and kept their side of the bargain. They plead that even the word "con-

"L. G." Rates Geneva

In a syndicated article which he has just written for publication abroad Mr. Lloyd George makes some bitter comments on the Disarmament Conference.

The members of the Conference are compared with doctors trying to find a harmless formula, which will serve as the death certificate for their patient.

"The chief mourners," he says, "will not be present at the funeral. They are the mothers whose sons now grow-up, are destined to fall in the next war."

Even more caustic are his references to the series of Geneva conferences, the "peace festival" of Locarno, and the Kellogg Pact.

Their futility is illustrated, he claims, by the fact that there is not a single European nation, from the Urals to the Atlantic, which has not a bigger and a better army at its disposal than at the time of the first meeting of the Disarmament Conference.

He Slings No Ink

At the age of seventy "L. G." ranks as one of the most prolific writers in Britain. During the last two years he has written well over 500,000 words.

He has many advantages over the average author: an efficient secretariat and an elaborate card-index for his huge mass of documents.

He can command, too, the advice and collaboration of former colleagues. The proofs of his new volumes, for instance, have been read by Mr. Stanley Baldwin.

"L. G." uses no artificial aids to the actual process of writing. When Calvin Coolidge was taken to see Emily Dickinson's house, he showed no emotion until he saw the poet's pen.

"I dictate," he said, scornfully. "L.G." uses a pencil.

AMERICA'S PRIEST OF THE AIR FATHER COUGHLIN'S WORK FOR THE NATION RADIO CHAMPION OF POOR

(By R. H. Bruce Lockhart.)

London, one week his postbag contained over 600,000 letters! There were complaints. They came not only from rich business men but also from rich Catholics. But to all these protests the Bishop of Detroit had one answer. "There is no heresy in what Father Coughlin says. I cannot interfere."

More serious was the attitude of the Columbia Radio Corporation, which threatened to impose a preliminary censorship on Father Coughlin's talks. He was equal to the occasion. He submitted the text of his next talk and had it approved. But, when he came to the microphone, he gave to his army of listeners an exact account of what had happened, excused himself for omitting his advertised talk, and declared that if a free American citizen could not talk freely to other free American citizens he would rather not talk at all. The avalanche of letters was overwhelming. But this time it descended not upon the Shrine of the Little Flower but on the offices of the Columbia Radio Corporation. Father Coughlin had conquered.

Charles Edward Coughlin was born in 1891, the year in which his hero, Pope Leo XIII, issued his encyclical "Rerum Novarum," on the condition of the working classes. Father Coughlin is anti-Marxist and anti-Communist but he is the wireless champion of the poor.

This man who to-day is helping to shape the destiny of the United States is not an American at all. His birthplace is Hamilton, Ontario, where his father was the local church sexton and an ex-stoker on a lake steamer. His mother was a farmer's daughter. Coughlin is an Irish-Canadian and talks with an Irish-Canadian brogue. It is perhaps his greatest asset. He is tall, heavily-built, and weighs over thirteen stone.

After taking honours in philosophy at Toronto University and a three months trip to Europe, he decided to enter the Church; was ordained in 1916, and ten years later sent by his Bishop to open a new parish at Royal Oak, a suburb of Detroit.

It was a squalid suburb. The parish was poor and the number of parishioners very small. The church which he built was little more than a bungalow. As a priest he seemed doomed to years of insignificance.

Then he got the idea of making Royal Oak famous and paying off the church debt by broadcasting his sermons. The parishioners were doubtful, but Father Coughlin went to Bishop Gallagher, his friend and supporter, and the experiment was sanctioned—in spite of the financial risk.

Through a friend Father Coughlin bought his wireless time at cheap rates. At first he only broadcast his weekly sermons. The experiment, still unremunerative, was successful enough for his parishioners to form the Radio League of the Little Flower and in its name to ask for contributions. The response was sufficient to cover his expenses.

It was then that Father Coughlin remembered Pope Leo's encyclical. The slump had just hit the United States. He had studied economics. He would heal the economic ills of the country as well as the spiritual soul of its people. In his broadcast sermons he began to advocate the devaluation of the dollar. He began to attack prohibition, Herbert Hoover, Henry Ford, the Treaty of Versailles and Communism.

But there was a proviso about the Communism. The real danger of Bolshevism in the United States came, not from the foreign Reds, but the bankers and big businessmen. The response was more satisfactory. Letters began to pour in. Many were from non-Catholics. Nearly all contained cash. A special staff had to be engaged to deal with the influx. The results encouraged and emboldened Father Coughlin. When he christened Messrs. Morgan, Mellon, Ogden, Mills, and Eugene Meyer (former head of the Federal Reserve Bank) the modern Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, the response was greater still, and in the long Boatbuilder Uses Axe To Collect His Money.

Sentencing a Chinese boat-builder, Lo Kwai, to three months' hard labour for assaulting Lo Chingching, the master of a Boatyard on Island Road, Aberdeen, and his wife, Pun Kiu, with an axe, Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy this morning said that he took a very serious view of the case. "You might easily have killed someone with that axe," he added.

Sub-Inspector Armitt said that the quarrel arose over a debt of $8.50 which the complaint owed to the defendant. The latter had worked for over 20 years in the complaint's shipyard, which had closed down last November. He had lived with the complainant since that date, however, but yesterday morning, when he was asked to wait a little longer for his money, became angry and slashed the woman with the axe, striking her on the thigh. Her husband in attempting to intervene also received a cut across

LEAVE FOR APPEAL GRANTED

M. Y. San And Co. (1927) Ltd. Seek Judgment Reversal.

VITAL POINT OVERLOOKED STATES DEFENCE

Before the Full Court, comprised of His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. McGregor and Mr. Justice P. Jacks, Messrs. M. Y. San and Co. (1927) Limited, of No. 96, Queen's Road Central, were granted leave to appeal against the judgment of Mr. Justice Jacks, given on June 18, in the summary jurisdiction action brought against them by Mrs. Li Hon-ping, of No. 63, Bonham Road for $826.60.

Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Mr. W. C. Lowe, of Messrs. Denny and Company, appeared for the appellants, who were named as the defendants in the previous action.

The plaintiff's claim was for $825.60, being the balance due to her by the defendants as the makers of a promissory note in favour of the plaintiff, dated September 15, 1927.

Mr. Lim, outlining his grounds for appeal stated that the defendant company, M. Y. San and Co. (1927) Limited, took over the assets and liabilities of the old M. Y. San and Company in 1927, which was at that time in liquidation.

New Company's Scheme. A scheme of arrangement was drawn up by which the new company came to an agreement with the creditors, by which the new company were to allot fully paid up ordinary shares to unsecured creditors to the extent of 40 per cent. of their claims. This was duly carried out.

Another condition of the scheme arrangement was that the new company should pay out of the profits of the company, after paying a dividend on preference shares, a further 40 per cent. of the claims.

The defendants issued their creditors with documents to this effect. In the court below, two points of defence were brought. The first was that no promissory notes had been given, and the second that even if the documents were taken to be promissory notes, it should be considered, in conjunction with the deed of arrangement, that no claim was valid on the grounds that no profits were made in 1932.

Point Overlooked. Mr. Justice Jacks had held that the documents sued on were promissory notes, and the grounds of appeal must, therefore, be the same as those of the defence.

Mr. Lim pointed out that the learned Judge, in giving judgment, had entirely overlooked the source out of which the Company should have paid its creditors, namely, out of profits.

After hearing Mr. Lim's application His Lordship granted permission to appeal.

DECISION ON JUNE 27

The Premier, Viscount M. Saito, Baron T. Yamamoto, Home Minister, and Mr. Korekichi Takahashi, Finance Minister, agreed on June 27, that they would resign as soon as the inquiry of the corruption charges against high officials of the Finance Ministry were completed by Mr. M. Koyama, Justice Minister. Following the regular meeting of the Cabinet Council on June 26, the "big three" of the Saito Cabinet considered their attitude in connection with the corruption case.

The decision of Mr. Takahashi to resign, taking direct responsibility for the case, was very firm and could not be altered.

NEW SAITO CABINET?

According to information from reliable sources, elder statesmen of the country are still favourable to the Saito Government and may suggest that the Emperor should reject the resignation of the Cabinet. It is also reported that the elder statesmen desire the Emperor should order Viscount Saito to form a new cabinet.

Prognosticators have been predicting the fall of the Saito Cabinet since May 20, when Mr. Hirota, former Vice-Minister of Finance, was arrested on charges of graft.

MISS SHENTON ILL.

Fined $10 For Speeding In Controlled Area.

Mr. W. A. Mackinlay appeared at the Central Magistracy before Mr. E. W. Hamilton this morning to plead guilty to a technical offence on behalf of Miss Y. Shenton, daughter of Sir William Shenton, who was summoned for driving at 30 m.p.h. through the controlled area at Whitfield.

Mr. Mackinlay said that Miss Shenton was ill, or would have otherwise attended the Court. He hoped that there was no suggestion of there being any danger, as he did not want to make any admission on behalf of Miss Shenton, except to a technical offence.

The Magistrate replied that he was not prepared to accept that plea and suggested an adjournment.

Mr. Mackinlay said that in any event Miss Shenton was not charged with driving dangerously, and that a plea of guilty would meet the summons. A fine of $10 was imposed.

Private Car Driver Cautioned.

PASSED LORRY IN WHITFIELD

Appearing on behalf of Leung Mun, a private car chauffeur who was summoned before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy this morning for passing a moving lorry in the controlled area at Whitfield on June 6, Mr. G. C. N. Tinson, pleaded guilty to a technical offence.

He said that he had been driving since 1907 and was of the opinion that had the chauffeur not passed the lorry, the car, in which he was a passenger, would have been causing an obstruction. The road was clear ahead and there was no side turning in the street at that point. The lorry was moving very slowly—at about 8 m.p.h. he said. Mr. Hamilton—"I would like to believe that."

Traffic Inspector Nicol said that the defendant had a very good record, having driven since 1912. The offence took place at the far end of Whitfield.

A caution was imposed.

15 m.p.h. Through 1,000 People.

"There were a thousand people in the street and it was a case for each one for himself," said Traffic Sergeant McInnis at the Central Magistracy this morning in prosecuting Lam Mow, a motor-lorry driver for driving at 15 m.p.h. along Hollywood Road, a controlled area.

Mr. E. W. Hamilton, the Magistrate, imposed a fine of $15 and remarked that the defendant had better be careful or else he would lose his license.

To-day's Short Story.

He Fought A Ghost

By Louis Golding.

THIS is the story of one of the most luridly exciting prize-fights in history. It is true that the fight involved fewer pennies than the Carpenter, Dempsey or Tunney affairs involved pounds. . . . It is true that the spectators numbered their hundreds rather than their tens of thousands. Yet the fact remains that for lurid excitement none of the championship affairs in recent history can begin to compare with that strange bout between Deaf Burke and Samuel O'Rourke.

They were both Irishmen by origin as their names indicate. But on that day in New Orleans they were England versus the States, the Old World versus the New World. They were also a living man versus an unsleeping ghost.

I said that the excitement was lurid. I mean precisely that. It was not the glorious excitement of pure boxing, such excitement as very nearly lifted the scalp off at the heroic contests of Bendigo versus Ben Caunt, or Tom Sayers versus John Heenan. It was the excitement not of the bare fists, but of the bare knife. It was pure, and perhaps impure, melodrama.

There were only three rounds fought, that day in New Orleans. That is a fairly respectable number compared with certain hectically advertised modern bouts which have come to an end in not many more seconds. But it was a miserable number then, when those gigantic creatures sometimes went on pummeling at each other for many more than a hundred rounds. Deaf Burke himself, much earlier in his career, took a certain Bill Fitzmaurice through it for no fewer than a hundred and sixty-six rounds. Yet, compared with those ultra-violet three rounds in New Orleans, the affair with Fitzmaurice was about as exciting as a hard-boiled egg.

Who was this Deaf Burke? And what on earth was he doing in New Orleans? For it is a long way from the Strand, and there were no airplanes or fast liners then.

Who was he? He was perhaps the most engaging of the bare-knuckle fighters, and the most gallant. He made his living as a lad by helping the grand folk to land from their pinnacles on the Strand water-stairs. He saved more than one life from drowning in those days, and ran away from the scene of the rescue as if he had done something he was acutely ashamed of.

So it was something in the nature of a tragic paradox that this gentle pugilist should be involved in a fight which ended fatally, his fight with the big Irishman, Simon Byrne, though Byrne himself had once after a fight been tried for manslaughter. It seemed almost as if Nemesis had appointed that the grim lot which had been dealt out by Byrne should be dealt out to him, too, in due season.

Missionary Brings Dog From New Territories.

LENIENCY PLEA UPHELD

An American missionary, Mr. Ralph Leonard McCall, who lives on the Sz Chi motor-boat in the Yaumati Shelter, was bound over in a sum of $50 for a period of six months by Mr. J. B. H. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, for bringing a dog from the New Territories to New Kowloon without an authorised permit on June 22.

Inspector Shaftain stated that defendant had very little money, and could not afford to pay any fine and asked the magistrate to take a very lenient view of the case.

DOGS WITHOUT MUZZLES. For allowing his dog to wander without a muzzle in Stafford Road at 6.35 p.m. on June 12, Mr. T. L. Knight, manager of Knight and Co., was fined $10 by Mr. J. B. H. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

CHARGE DISMISSED. Owing to the fact that the complainant, B.137, was absent Mr. C. H. Basto of No. 9 Devon Road was dismissed on the charge that he allowed his dog to be unmuzzled.

EUROPEANS FINED. Mr. R. Rathnell, of No. 35 Waterloo Road, was fined $10 for allowing his dog to go unmuzzled in Somerset Road at 11.30 a.m. on June 11. Mrs. F. Dixon, of No. 14 Kent Road, was fined $10 for allowing her dog to wander in Kent Road at 8.30 p.m. on June 11 unmuzzled.

Launch Coolies In Grim Struggle.

Lo Chau, a 25-year-old coolie of Sanitary launch No. 2, was bound over in a sum of $25 for a period of six months by Mr. J. B. H. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for assaulting Ting Hung, another coolie on board while the launch was lying alongside the sea-wall in the Yaumati typhoon shelter.

In prosecuting, Inspector 22 wrote the chronicle, "profusely trimmed with yellow braid, and decorated with flying knots of yellow ribbon at the knees, while his calves were cased in a pair of bright striped worsted stockings, and his feet in laced high-lows."

The "high-lows" must have looked very dashing as the feet they shod danced and pranced about the ring. In fact, Burke must have looked very dashing altogether despite his bull-dog face, his high Irish cheek-bones, his bulby nose. He was in grand condition. His muscles rippled under the firm satin skin. He tapered down from broad shoulders to slim flanks in fashion that the ancient sculptors immortalised in bronze and marble.

There was a grin on his gruff face when he and his man toed the scratch. The phantom of it came back again and again during that infinite century of rounds.

In the last round of all there was a grin on the face of Simon Byrne. No one knew it was the grin the face of a dying man assumes when the skull shows through under the skin, as if a supernatural light, is switched on and quickly off again.

MOST BRITTLE BOY IN ENGLAND

Arm Broken Through Shaking Hands BREAKS THIGH IN BED

London.
Ernest Gardner, aged 16, who lives in Buckingham, has well earned his title of the "most brittle boy in England." In the course of his short life he has broken one or other of his limbs no less than 16 times. Even while in an invalid chair he has not been immune, for he has had his arm broken merely through shaking hands.

Ernest had to give up going to school when he was 12, because the least little thing that happened, and which in another boy would have caused only bruises or cuts, resulted for him in broken arms and legs.

A little girl, playing with a ball, kicked it too hard and in the wrong direction. It hit Ernest—result a broken thigh. He had barely recovered from this calamity when turning over in bed—where he must certainly have thought he was safe—he broke his thigh again.

Despairing ever of being able to play cricket or football, to both of which games he is passionately devoted, Ernest passes his days in his invalid chair knitting socks for his father, a lorry driver.

The doctors say that his "fragility" will stop when he stops growing. Meanwhile, though he has been unable to walk for the last two years he has suffered six different breakages in that time.

His complete list of fractures, from the first at the age of two, is:—

Left arm, 7 times; right arm, once; right leg, 6 times; left leg, once; collar bone, once.

His left arm cannot be straightened since by reason of the frequent fractures his bones are a mass of splinters.—Reuter.

QUEER REQUEST TO LINER

Stopped In Pacific For Matches ISLANDER'S PLIGHT

San Francisco.
A request for matches caused the Matson-Oceanic liner Mariposa to heave to in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.

When the liner reached San Francisco the captain reported that he had been halted by a number of natives in a canoe half way between Samoa and Fiji.

The liner stopped, and a note was handed to him by the natives.

It was signed by the only white man on the tiny island of Nua Fo'ou, Mr. W. G. Quensell, and told of the plight of the island since the economic depression.

The first request made in the note was for matches, as Quensell's only means of making fire was to rub two sticks together.

"We have also been out of sugar and petrol for over two months," the note added. "Cigarettes would be welcome. Ink and newspapers."

So the idea of America came to him. "Praps 'e won't follow me dere!" muttered Deaf Burke. "All dat way across de big waters!"

Nua Fo'ou was once a port of call for copra ships, but since the depression they have ceased to go there.

The steamship company is now making arrangements to supply Quensell regularly with the "luxuries" he asks for, and to keep him in touch with the outside world.—Reuter.

WANTS TO BECOME BRITISH

107 Year-Old Russian's Application

Winipeg.
Although he is 107 year old, Mr. Jacob Goody hopes to become a British subject before his death. He has returned the application he made two years ago, which was rejected because of his insufficient knowledge of the English language. Mr. Goody was born in Russia.—Reuter.

HE FOUGHT A GHOST

Simon Byrne fell at length. There was no bringing him round now, however crafty the seconds might be. Deaf Burke won. But he did not remain the winner long. Death was the winner a few days later. Death stole from Simon Byrne's brow the few laurels that Deaf Burke had spared him. And not even Burke was brave enough to go down into the dark places to dispute the matter.

This, then was Deaf Burke, whom on a certain day we see stripped in the ring in New Orleans, with the bared knives all about him, flashing evilly in the strong sun. And how came he then to New Orleans? That question remains to be answered. And the answer is Simon Byrne.

The oracles of the ring do not give the same answer at all. Jem Ward, they say, the living champion—it was he who was responsible for Deaf Burke's journey to America.

I do not believe it. It was a ghost that sent him there. For the oracles of the ring—such stalwart scribes as Pierce Egan and Vincent Dowling—were grand judges of a cross-buttock throw and a left hook to the point of the jaw. But they were less subtle judges of the souls of men. It is not enough to say that mere pique or mere greed sent Burke across the waste of weltering waters. That is to misunderstand completely the sort of person he was—a child, half comical, half pitiable cabined within a shaggy bruiser's body.

Doubtless Jem Ward was irritating enough. Jem Ward was still the official champion of the time, though why that was so is a little mysterious, for he had formally renounced the championship four years previously. It was none other than Simon Byrne whom Jem Ward had beaten for the belt, so it seemed reasonable for Burke to claim it when he beat that unfortunate creature.

The moment Burke did so, however, Ward made a snatch for the belt as if it were a baby about to fall into a boiler of hot water. He would fight, said Ward, for no sum less than £500 a side. This was sore news for Burke. He seemed as likely to become Shah of Persia as to find £500. At length Ward was induced to go down an octave. He would fight for £300 against £200. After strenuous efforts Burke found the money, only to find Ward piping up again the earlier shriller tune—£500 a side or no fight.

No wonder Burke was disgruntled. He tried to get matched up with two other hefty gentlemen, but there, too, nothing came of it. So he went wandering from London to Birmingham, Birmingham to Liverpool.

And all the time a ghost went padding after him. A ghost with half its ghostly face smashed in, and its ghostly fists smashed to a pulp.

Jem Ward would not fight Deaf Burke. Young Langan would not fight Deaf Burke.

They were living men, and he was not afraid of them. But Simon Byrne challenged him to fight again and again. He jeered and lured at him in dark entries and bright patches of moonlight. But Simon Byrne was dead, and Deaf Burke was woefully afraid.

So the idea of America came to him. "Praps 'e won't follow me dere!" muttered Deaf Burke. "All dat way across de big waters!"

FIGHT FOR TRUE CHURCH

Factory Girl's Donation To Pastor Niemoller.

Berlin.
A factory-girl's last action before she died has been to send a contribution to Pastor Niemoller, the former German U-boat commander and now head of the Pastor's Emergency League, which is opposing the Nazi movement.

The story is told by Pastor Niemoller in his parish letter published here.
The girl, who lived in the Rhineland, summoned her parents just before her death and asked that she might be given the cheapest possible funeral. Any money left over, she said, he made two years ago, which was rejected because of his insufficient knowledge of the English language. Mr. Goody was born in Russia.—Reuter.

And Deaf Burke set sail for America, with the green swell before him and the pale wake of foam behind. The seagulls dipped and swooped about his head. "Good-bye, Simon Byrne" cried out Deaf Burke. "Ho! Ho!" laughed Simon Byrne. "You've not done with me yet!"

The living boxers of America were as chary of putting their fists up against the Cockney Irishman as their colleagues in England had been. He waited about in New York. He went careering off to Philadelphia. He came empty-handed back to New York again.

They all disapproved strongly of Deaf Burke as a boxer. So when the manager of an institution called Conklin's Hall offered to show him to the public as a statue, Deaf Burke, who was getting a little hungry by this time, accepted the engagement.

He was a queer sort of Valentino or Chevalier to capture the heart of the downtown maidens. But he did. His "Achilles throwing the discus" was irresistible. As the "Dying Gladiator" he died in "five celebrated positions." He went on dying and throwing the discus and defying the lightning for some weeks.

But he began to get more and more restive. Among the young women and small boys who paid their dime to see him he sometimes saw a creature, with a smashed face and a pulped fist, that over-towered them all. He would turn round suddenly, as if he expected a lunge into the kidneys.

"I must get quit out of dis 'eres!" he said to himself. "Dis ain't no good for me at all, it ain't. It gets me creepy!"

There was only one way, he realised, to lay the shadow that padded after him along the sunlit length of Broadway or into the dark purities of the Bowery. He must get into the ring again. His blood must tingle again with the glory of battle. The air must resound again with the slap of bare knuckles on cheek and rib. The crowd must roar again: "Bravo, the Deaf 'Un! Well hit, Deaf Burke!"

And then he read the challenge of Samuel O'Rourke in a New Orleans paper.

But to Deaf Burke it was more than the challenge of Samuel O'Rourke. It was the challenge of O'Rourke's dead countryman, Simon Byrne.

They warned Deaf that the ferocious Irishman had sworn to have his blood for the blood of Simon Byrne. They warned him again when he read O'Rourke's swaggering challenge to fight any man living for a thousand dollars a side. But they could not hold him back. He packed up his traps and went. But it was not Samuel O'Rourke he went to meet. It was to try conclusions, one and for all, with a more silent and more formidable adversary.

At last Deaf Burke and Samuel O'Rourke came face to face in a drinking-shop by the waterside. O'Rourke's was not a pleasant face, nor was Burke's either at that moment. O'Rourke started blustering. "He's not strip for one cent less than a thousand dollars, begad he wouldn't."

It so happened that two adventurous gentlemen were taking a dram or two in the saloon at that moment. Perhaps they had taken two or three. The fact remains that they each brought forth 255 dollars then and there, and laid them down among the spillings of rum and absinthe.

"What do you say to that, Sam?" they wanted to know. O'Rourke's gaze wandered between Burke's colossal fists and the sweet heap of dollar-bills. The dollar-bills had it. A wetness came up along his lower lip. "Done!" said he, and licked his lip.

The fight was fixed for a fortnight later. It came off, and both the principals were there—was a strange thing. For so many efforts were made on Deaf Burke's life that you might have thought he was a pretender to a throne and not a mere low-born bruiser from the Thames Embankment.

His backers and his seconds, however, formed themselves into a bodyguard which in later days, the illustrious Mr. Al Capone transported with him on all his journeys, whether he went to the corner of the block to buy a newspaper or to the coast of Florida to buy a pleasure palace.

So Deaf Burke survived and, after a long and arduous journey, he stepped into the ring on a blazing afternoon in May. The ring had been set up at the fork of the Bayou roads, over against the rolling Mississippi. It was surrounded by the gentlest gang of ewe lambs that ever gathered to witness a fight in the history of prize-fighting. If it had suddenly occurred to those ewe lambs to set to washing themselves clean of their sins, there would not have been water enough in the long deep Mississippi to do the job.

It was a grand, snarling, roaring, screaming, spitting company of (say) parades, consisting largely of (say) afternoon in May. The ring had breeds, French gamblers, Yankee sharp-shooters, Irish roughs.

All Ireland had sent its delegates from Cork to Londonderry. Had not Deaf Burke slaughtered their brother of a boy, Simon Byrne, and in cold blood, too? He had aimed them all these last two weeks. To-day he would not slay them. It was not the bare knuckles of Samuel O'Rourke they put their trust in. What were those things for, these bowie knives, these bludgeons and slams-shots?

WINDSOR LAD EQUALS RECORD

The Maharajah of Rajpipla was the first owner to offer Smirke a retainer when he resumed riding. Colombo did not stay the mile and a half as well as the two horses who finished in front of him. In the course of the race he met with a little interference, but I refuse to believe that this was fatal.

Let his jockey, Johnstone, tell the story himself: "I took second place to Medieval Knight at the end of the first furlong. Evidently Donoghue was trying to lead all the way on Medieval Knight; but coming down the hill to Tattenham Corner that horse weakened quickly.

"I was just behind him, and as he dropped back on me I could not pull round him immediately because Tiberius and Fleetfoot were on my outside. I had to check my horse momentarily, but soon obtained a clear run. Colombo had every chance in the straight, but after he had drawn up to the girths of Windsor Lad he weakened in the last furlong."

Colombo was quite cool in the paddock and conducted himself perfectly in the parade and at the post.

The only hard luck story I heard was of Alishah, who stumbled to such an extent during the race that his jockey, Perryman, lost both stirrups and rode without them for a while. Alishah finished fifth, just behind Tiberius, and a length or so in front of his more fancied stable companion Umidwar, who was sixth.

INEXPERIENCED?
Umidwar, who had been awkward at the start, was always in the first eight. H. Wragg, his rider, said that he was just where he wanted to be at Tattenham Corner and felt that he was going well, but when he asked his horse to improve his position Umidwar behaved like a green young horse with little experience of racing.

Umidwar will doubtless improve in the course of the season.

Windsor Lad did not run for the Two Thousand Guineas, but Easton came from France to finish second to Colombo in that race. The change in that form may be due in part to the improvement effected in Easton by English oats and English hay. Lord Woolavington gave £15,000 for him after the Guineas.

Percy Carter, who trained the colt in France, came to see him run, and as he had a bet of 35 to 1 against Easton being placed in both the Two Thousand and the Derby was well pleased with the result.

Windsor Lad, by the way, cost his owner £300 gns. as a yearling at Newmarket. He was bred by Mr. O. Sullivan, a successful Irish breeder of thoroughbreds and cattle.

Tiberius early in the race was last. He made up ground so fast that he was first into the straight, attended by the outsider Fleetfoot, Primero, Windsor Lad, Easton and Colombo. Immediately afterwards Windsor Lad shot in to the lead and for a short while it looked as if Primero was his most formidable rival.

WELL-BACKED
Bondeman was in the first four six furlongs from home, but he dropped out before reaching Tattenham Corner.

The Maharajah of Rajpipla lives, when in England, at the Manor House. Old Windsor, and both there and in India he entertains his English friends in a princely manner. He owned Embargo, who won good races a few years ago.

For many weeks past Windsor Lad has been one of the best backed horses. A substantial commission was placed at 25 to 1. I do not know if the Maharajah is a heavy better, but if he supported his horse in keeping with the confidence he expressed in his chance he must have won a substantial sum. He received afterwards the congratulations of the King, and Mr. Marsh was similarly honoured.

Windsor Lad was a very popular fancy. He started third favourite at 15 to 2. Colombo's price hardened, and he started at 11 to 8. The first five in the betting were in the first six at the finish. Windsor Lad has won his three races this season, including the Chester Vase. Hyperion took that race last year before passing to his great victory in the Derby.

As was said earlier, from the point of view of mere fighting, the Burke O'Rourke affair does not rank high in the annals of prize-fighting. There were only three rounds fought. O'Rourke thrust in a few sharp ones to the ribs. Deaf Burke got over some of those great swinging smashes which had done so much damage on the other side of the water.

But the sight of those mousethings bristling, those lips twisting, those knives glinting, must have taken a little polish off his style. The fight was officially between Deaf Burke and Samuel O'Rourke, but O'Rourke's second, a brisk gentleman named Micky Carson, took up a great deal of the limelight. In the second round he crept up behind the Englishman and shoved him in O'Rourke's arms. O'Rourke promptly threw him and fell on top of him.

Deaf Burke was displeased. He informed Mr. Carson he would knock him down if he did such a thing again. Mr. Carson said that if Mr. Burke tried to knock him down he would slit his gizzard. Mr. Carson meant it. Unusual as it is for seconds in a prize-fight to carry a knife or a pistol in addition to a sponge and a towel, Mr. Carson carried both a knife and a pistol.

In the third round Deaf Burke was more than displeased. He was angry. He knocked out several of Samuel O'Rourke's teeth. Mr. Carson thought this very unmannerly. He crept forward, his hand on his knife-hilt. Deaf Burke spotted him out of the corner of his eye. With the bellow of an outraged bull he hurled himself upon Mr. Carson. Mr. Carson slid nearly to the ground.

What happened then was confused and confusing. Ireland surged as one man upon the ropes, and cut them. Then it surged upon Deaf Burke and tried to do the same to him.

"Come on!" roared Burke, hurling his fists about him like balls.

"Come on, you lumps!" And then he saw a face among the other faces, paler than the rest. It was the face of no living man. His eyes grew thick as glass. His hands fell to his side. The knives circled in the air about his head.

Then a voice, the voice of a friend cried into his ear beseechingly: "Pull yourself together, man! They'll slit your throat! Run! Run!"

He blinked. He had a sudden poignant vision of the Thames, how broad it flows at Westminster, and the lights upon it. He had a vision of a girl he knew at Poplar.

He turned his huge back upon the ghost. Like a buffalo charging, he butted his way through the mob. The roughs fell like skittles before his onset.

A hundred yards down the Bayou road a hand thrust the handle of a bowie-knife into his hand. "Take this!" said the voice.

The howling mob was at his heels. Fifty yards further a stranger leaped from his horse and bade Burke leap on to it. "God bless you," said the stranger, "and get to hell out of it."

Hell-for-leather, rode Deaf Burke into New Orleans. A strange horseman he looked, naked to the naval, those green baize drawers below it, with the dying knots of yellow ribbon at the knees. He fled to the theatre owned by the good Mr. Caldwell, one of his backers.

There he lay low for several days, until it was considered safe to move him, at dead of night, with a few old sacks about his shoulders, down to the water-side.

They smuggled him aboard a steamship going north up the Mississippi. The horn hooted. The paddle churned up the black water. Deaf Burke threw off his sacks, threw out his chest, and walked over to the stern. Behind, fainter and fainter, twinkled the lights of New Orleans. Beneath, the bubbles choked and chuckled.
